NAIDOC Week

The Northern Connector Project marked NAIDOC Week by celebrating the contribution Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people (ATSI) are making to this important infrastructure project.

Despite the chilly temperatures, the site was warmed by the performances of Maltirinthe Dancers, Jymain Pinku O'Neill and Nashawn Wadla Ferguson on Monday 3 July 2017.

The project is exceeding its two per cent target for Indigenous employment, with 11 per cent of total on-site labour hours completed by ATSI people as at 30 September 2017.

Through NorthHub, the dedicated on-site employment and training facility, the project has so far employed 32 per cent of the total workforce from target groups including apprentices, trainees and cadets, displaced automotive workers, Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander people, and local people with barriers to employment.

The project has also directly engaged several local Aboriginal-owned businesses within the supply chain and is exceeding the target of at least 90 per cent of total on-site labour hours to be undertaken by South Australians.

Cycle path detour >>

The new cycle path detour is in place on the Port River Expressway for eastbound and westbound routes, between Hanson Road and Globe Derby Drive.

This has replaced the previous eastbound detour and will enable cyclists to continue to travel safely between these locations during the construction of the new bridge connecting the South Road Superway and the Northern Connector, as part of the Southern Interchange.

Directional signage is in place to help direct cyclists along the detour. To plan your journey ahead, please visit <http://maps.sa.gov.au/cycleinstead/>.
